1. Learning Outcomes: Upon completion of this course the student would be able to:

- The students obtain wider knowledge of facts and figures of the past and make the learner assimilate the essence of that through multidisciplinary approach. It takes the learners into the intellectual forum through the study of history. It inculcates a sense of nationalism to enable the student community to face the onslaught of communalism and casteism.
- The Sociology students can develop the sociological knowledge and skills that will enable them to think critically and imaginatively about society and social issues. Through coursework, internships, independent studies and collaborative research with faculty, the Department encourages a commitment to social justice based on an appreciation of social and intellectual diversity and an awareness of social inequality.
- The students understand the basic principles of Politics including governing institutions and branches, political wings and organizations, political behavior and the operation of government at both the national and state levels. Understanding government and politics in a comparative perspective and understand government and politics in a global context.
- students learn mainly about the processing of the human mind and human behaviour. They study how humans behave differently in different circumstances while dealing with different sets of people. On the basis of this, various conclusions are drawn.
